This mid-century home in Kentfield was fully renovated to honor its original footprint while reimagining the interiors for modern living. Designed around the client's art collection and lifestyle, the result is a refined retreat with bold yet timeless details, a reworked layout, and seamless indoor-outdoor living.

The living space balances expressive pattern with thoughtful restraint. Clean architectural lines and sculptural forms create structure, while layered neutrals establish a calm, luminous foundation. Anchored by a gallery-scale artwork, the room feels curated yet welcoming — striking yet serene, elevated without ever feeling untouchable.

With over 30 years of experience, EJ Interior Design is led by Principal Eugenia Jesberg alongside Emma Jesberg, Design Director. Together, they create interiors that balance refined sophistication with effortless comfort. Known for thoughtfully curated materials and deeply livable spaces, the firm brings a cohesive vision to new construction, renovations, and full-scale furnishings.

With projects throughout Marin County, the greater Bay Area, and Southern California — including mountain retreats and coastal vacation homes — EJ Interior Design approaches every home with clarity, collaboration, and meticulous execution.

Exceptional design isn't just about how a room looks — it's about how it lives.
